

Intermediary services for descendants and other prescribed people Workshop for professionals

Overview

This workshop is designed to build confidence in working in this newer area of post-adoption support. It covers the legal underpinning of and processes involved in working with descendants and other prescribed people. It also explores the emotional aspects of this work.

Objectives

Participants will have the opportunity to:

- gain knowledge of the regulations underpinning this work
- understand who the new regulations apply to
- understand what rights applicants have
- consider the step-by-step processes involved
- explore the emotional impact of the work
- feel more confident about doing the work

Who should attend?

Social workers and others who are conducting intermediary work under the umbrella of a registered adoption support agency.

NB: this workshop is not suitable for those without prior experience of intermediary work unless they have attended our Intermediary Work with Adopted Adults and Birth Relatives workshop.
